Faith-based organizations play a critical role in providing healthcare to Africa's most vulnerable communities. In sub-Saharan Africa, Christian Health Associations provide front-line preventative and public health care, extending their reach through communities of faith.

The Africa Christian Health Associations Platform is the leading information and knowledge-sharing network that facilitates learning and joint advocacy for Christian Health Associations and their development partners. With 43 member organizations from 32 countries, a biennial conference is key to advancing regional and global health issues, establishing priorities and ultimately enhancing care for the vulnerable communities CHAs serve.
